Community Laying Nest

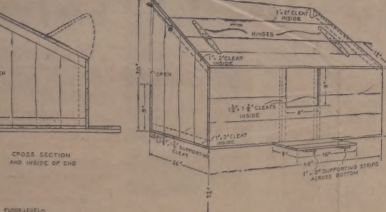

Diagram showing details for construction of a community nest.

The community laying nest for poultry houses is perhaps one of the latest developments in poultry farming. We are showing a nest with an area of the poultry department at Macdonald College at the present time. Dimensions of the nest are shown clearly in the drawing and a nest of this size will take care of the requirements for 100 birds.

For 250 hens it is likely that six of these nests would be sufficient. The nests are placed 22 inches above the floor.

The nests are built of matched lumber, the outer frame of the nest frame type. That is, the ends are made up first with chords along the top and bottom edges, the top and bottom rails being nailed to

Professor Stresses Importance Of Preserving Canadian Farm Home

By JEAN LOVE GALLOWAY

OTTAWA.—If we are content to have our own boys and girls

by the people of other lands, we betray the future of our Anglo-Saxon and French-Canadian races," declared H. S. Earl in the 23rd convocation of Eastern Canada's Women's Institute, held in the Chateau Laurier here.

Mr. Earl is a former professor at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, and before his retirement to a Britannia Heights farm was a domain livestock commissioner.

He pointed out that present farm problems cannot be solved until urban folk come back to the farm, and he attacked the present policy of helping European immigrants to the farm.

"Our farm homes are the nursery and the heart of our Canadian people," Mr. Earl said. "Change or destroy them and we change the heart of the nation."

Pointing out that about 500 W. I. delegates, the speaker declared that "this country is the farm home where you were born and grew up."

He stressed the importance of the way of nature and the life of living things. It was there you learned to love the land and the friendship of neighbors. It was there you learned the call of duty and obedience to duty.

It was on the farm that you learned the sacrifices of parents to rear and educate their children.

There you learned the comfort of a wood fire as the family sat in the evening, and the peace of quiet of evening. It was there you learned the value of the human spirit.

It was there you learned to believe in God.

Mr. Earl stressed the importance of preserving the Canadian farm. "The farm is the heart of the nation," he said.

He pointed out that the farm is the heart of the nation, and that the farm is the heart of the nation.

HONOURABLE RETIREMENT
The Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King laid down his high office of prime minister of the Dominion on Monday of this week. Speaking to his cabinet and the parliamentary press gallery on the previous Friday, he remarked: "I think my day's work is done."

That work, spread over the longest measure of time of any prime minister of the British Commonwealth of Nations, has been a record of faithful and honourable service.

In his 74th year, and reported to have appeared worse from his recent illness, Mr. King is relinquishing his office at an age some years junior to one other distinguished Liberal leader. The Rt. Hon. Wm. Ewart Gladstone formed his fourth cabinet in 1892 at the age of 82 years, resigning two years later, in 1894, on account of ill-health. In their 70 years, the public life of these two outstanding Liberals was notable for the stresses under which they labored. In Mr. Gladstone's case, the Irish ques-

THE WORLD OF WHEAT
By H. G. L. Strang

U.S.A. Price Support Plan

A good deal of discussion is taking place about the U.S.A. price support plan, and some are confused about it. Here is the plan: will wheat and a number of other farm commodities, the U.S.A. Government guarantees to farmers 90% of the average price of the year 1910-1914. Under the American system farmers have had support prices, in addition have enjoyed prices, and are still enjoying (because their open market is functioning) considerably higher prices than profits farmers have received and are now receiving.

Of the 94 million pounds of Canadian prairie exports for the last three months of the year, 32 million pounds went to the United States.

from prying eyes

Every day hundreds of customers may be in and out of the bank which serves you.

Yet you know nothing about their transactions, they know nothing about yours.

You may be depositing or borrowing. The amount may be a dollar, or thousands.

That's your business... nobody else's.

You take for granted this private, personal relationship between you and your bank.

All thanks be to it that your transactions—and those of about 7,000,000 other Canadians—are kept safe from prying eyes.
